

Louise&Dexter

2026 dates

30 October: Graines de Jazz Festival
 27 November: Jazz à Fareins Festival
 29 November: Maquis de Vareilles
 18 December: Espace Philippe Auguste

On stage as in life, Louise&Dexter make an unexpected pair. United by music and by love, they set jazz and classical music in conversation on a single piano, four hands. From this union comes a musical and human chemistry that feels completely natural. Every note is a knowing whisper, every silence a promise. You only need to see and hear them to swear they were made for each other.

Dexter Goldberg: piano and composition
Louise Akili: piano

Quotes

“A rare, fresh and graceful encounter between two pianists”

Jazz Magazine

“Love knows no borders, not even the one once thought impassable between jazz and classical music”

Télérama

“For both of them, playing becomes a declaration offered to the other, a vow renewed in music”

Télérama

“Our two piano lovebirds”

Clément Rochefort / France Musique

“In our view, the strength of the record lies in the careful, impeccable blend of its classical and jazz sides”

Biographies

Louise Akili

Born in Paris in 1990, pianist Louise Akili is a graduate of the Paris Conservatoire (CNSMDP). Curious and eclectic, she explores a vast repertoire, from Baroque music to contemporary creation. Her first album, devoted to Roland-Manuel and Ravel, came out in 2020 (Passavant Music), followed in 2025 by "Étincelles", a duo album with violinist Jean-Samuel Bez. A laureate of the Fondation Royaumont, the Centre Nadia et Lili Boulanger and the Académie Ravel, she performs in France and abroad (Châtelet, Musée d'Orsay, Philharmonie de Paris, Japan, Romania...).

Dexter Goldberg

Born in Paris in 1987, Dexter Goldberg grew up in a family of musicians. After starting out on percussion, he discovered the piano at 16 and developed a singular style blending tradition and invention. A graduate of the Paris Conservatoire (CNSMDP), he founded his trio and released "Tell Me Something New" in 2018 (Jazz&People), praised by Jazz Magazine. His album "Caliboudja" (2023) received a Jazz Magazine "Choc" and a TTT rating from Télérama, and was named one of the 40 best albums of the year.
